Can you please stop the bus?

Paul: Can we stop the bus?

Yes, I need to get out here now. Can you help me?

Paul: Yes, we'll help you out there. In actual fact, you're not on the bus anymore, you've been brought to this house, which is a place to help you on your journey. Can I just ask, were you feeling unwell on that bus?

I was terribly hot.

Paul: Yeah, because this may seem a strange question, but do you know what happens when you 'die' as we call it?

Yes, I have to go in front of the 'High Manta' and then of the 'Medium Manta' and then of the 'Little Manta' and then I have to answer all the right questions, but I haven't seen any of them.

Paul: Well, lots of people have different beliefs and ideas; there are so many different religions and each one has got a slightly different idea, but they're all based on love, so they don't change that much. So, there is a beautiful place, whatever you want to call it, that we go when we pass, when we die and it is a lovely place, based on love and all the things we think about and actually that's what's happened to you now; so that's why we've brought you here, to help you on your journey to this place of love, that you fully deserve, that we all go to.

So, I can help you now to get there.

So you'll help me find the Higher Manta?

Paul: Yes...

All right, where do I go now?

Paul: Right, you should be feeling a lot better now that you're not on that bus and you should be feeling a peaceful calmness and that will help you to see a light in front of you. Can you see any light? It will be like your portal.

Is that a trick question, because there's 2 lights?

Paul: It may appear to different people slightly differently, because we've all got different minds.

Do I go to the blue light or to the orange light?

Paul: Well, you may get a clue. If you look into both lights, one will almost beckon you, draw you. You may even notice a detail within one of the lights. So if you calmly see what you can observe.

Well, I think the orange light has a lion in there.

Paul: And how does that feel to you?

Well, some people call them big cats, but I don't know if I feel comfortable with that one.

(Pause) It doesn't look mean or anything.

Paul: Do you like lions?

I do like lions—I find them beautiful.

Paul: And does this lion look like he's welcoming you?

Well, he's just sitting there, staring at me, but not in a mean way.

Paul: Because sometimes they come to you, in the appearance of something like a lion, or something, but really they're not what they appear to be.

It looks like he's smiling!

Paul: Mm, there you are—I think you've got something special here, it's not what it appears; you may find it's more like some symbol of love, to help you on your journey.

Alright, I'll walk towards him and see what he's all about. My dad had a lion as a pet.

Paul: Well, you may find your father is actually there; this may be the link.

Alright, I'll go and investigate.

Paul: And maybe you'll find your father there and he'll be able to explain to you and welcome you and give you so much more love and understanding, that was sometimes difficult whilst on earth, but not in this new place.

NB: An internet search for 'Higher Mantas' was unsuccessful—there are so many religions/sects etc. and perhaps this was not from an orthodox religion.
