

~12th April 1999 — Leslie's farewell~

Good evening. (General welcomes)

My welcome here has always been one of abundance.

Les: Thank you, we all take great delight in being able to welcome you to us.

For this I would wish to say to you this time: Thank you. This for some time will be my last visit with you.

Les: That's unfortunate, but we do understand. There is much preparation ahead, not only for myself, but all others who wish to work with you. I would say this to you my dear friend: Although your absence in the physical form will be noticeable amongst the others, I would wish you to know that you will feel my presence always around you.

Les: Good, that's very comforting for me. It has not been evident of late, because you are doing what I have tried to teach you not to do so often, and that is to be so fully aware of the physical being, not to allow the spirit to come forth.

Les: Yes, just at the moment, with all these problems of moving house, it has been difficult to find a restful time.

I know and I understand fully, but in saying so my dear friend, I would wish that you could hear from within yourself, the words that I have spoken to you, over many, many of your months. You must always when there is difficulties in your living, allow that spirit to rise forth and to smooth your pathway for you.

Les: Yes I do try to do that.

Now, you are seeing how difficult it is, when you do not allow the spirit its true nature, when it is not used each and every day of your physical living.

Les: Yes you are quite right, because I have felt loss of energy—I put it down to all the other circumstances of course, but I'm looking forward to getting down with my son, because he too wants to participate more in the work with me now and I'm very pleased to know that.

You should have realised—all of you—as one of life's doors closes, another will open.

Les: Yes I'm sure it's going to and then I shall really rest a great deal and allow the spirit to take over.

Yes, that is what is needed at this time, but I will not say to the others to do so, because they have much work ahead.

Les: Yes they are all getting organised now, to run their groups. And I'm sure they'll be delighted to have you visit them now and again, when you can.

Lilian: Yes we will.

It is not a matter of now and again, but there are matters which I must attend to. I will be with them, no matter what and I am sure they will be only too happy, to tell you of my words.

Les: I'm sure they will be.

There is much to be given to you and we cannot allow any breakage in that knowledge.

Les: Good.

Lilian: Nice to know.

When I say I will not be with you for some time, it is only a matter of what you will call weeks—it is but a blink of the eye. But take faith and know I will be working with you all.

Lilian: We're very grateful.

Les: I hope you get my thoughts every night, because I never go to sleep without thanking you; I know you're there constantly.

You will as time continues, be much more aware of my presence, in some form or other. And I say this to you, to each of you, that my presence can take many forms. It is something we have not spoken about, but which I intend to, at a future time. There are many ways you can feel my presence. So remember always to keep your mind open to these words.

Lilian: Yes we will.

Les: Yes I must admit, that recently during the heavy work I've been having, and the problems associated with the house moving, I have sat down at times and just spoken to you mentally and asked for strength from you.

Yes, I will say to you that you are going along the road you have chosen. (Good.) Have no fears, know that the physical body is becoming of age, as you would say, but that should not prevent the work of spirit. It can be annoying, it can be upsetting, but there is no reason why it should be allowed to take hold and push aside the true nature of your being.

Les: No, I absolutely agree and I have been working on that basis.

I would say to you before I leave you, because my friends, I did wish to join you on this last occasion, whilst we still have the gentleman's physical being with us; I wanted to come, in order that you will know there is much work for us to do.

Les: Good.

Lilian: Yes, we'll look forward to that.

You know, if you have listened to my words, that the power of the thought, divides no soul. Distance is nothing, when you have the power of your thought.

Lilian: Yes.

Les: Yes that's right. We are all constantly thinking of what we are going to do in the future. We do thank you for having made that so abundantly clear to us, over the years we have been together.

There is much to give, much to learn, much to develop; there is so much we hope we can bring. We have over time, and I will say that time for you all, is the most difficult aspect of all. What to you may seem such lengthy time, is nothing. Therefore we have much to do and much to achieve. I will repeat my words, that you have gained the opportunity for much phenomenon in your world. It is coming, if you have patience, if you have love and you have dedication. We now feel that the opportunity and the time is coming, where much can be given to you in the way of words and also in the rising of your own senses. After all, you have been imbued with all of these gifts, now it is time to bring them to the surface. Therefore as I leave you my dear friends, let us join in our thoughts and give thanks to that Great Creative Force, to which we all belong.

Les: Yes, I'm hoping that one day in the future, my son and I will have the pleasure of you visiting us?

I will be around. His desire is great, but there will be times when physical living will take command for him. But be patient, all will be well.

Les: Yes, good. Thank you very much for telling me that and God bless you and thank you very much again, for all you have done for us.

Before I leave you, I will give to you some little information, that the gentleman you speak of, has been much-blessed in this lifetime and we would wish it known to him and perhaps you can make it your task to tell him, that throughout his life he is guided if you like that word, I do not, but it is a well-known saying in your world —he has been guided by his maternal grandfather.

Les: His maternal grandfather? (Yes.) I will tell him that, thank you yes, he knows that he HAS been guided; (Yes.) he has told me that he is certain he receives guidance and help.

That is some little information to help him along his way.

Les: I shall certainly pass it on to him, thank you very much indeed.

There then followed one through Sue, relaying the message that there were many waving, not waving 'Goodbye,' but saying 'We'll see you soon.' She emphasised how happy and excited they were— not a sad time, but a happy one. There then followed one through Eileen, who came to say thank you to Les, for helping them out of the 'mist' in a 'rescue,' years ago. This was immediately followed by another through Eileen, who talked warmly to Les, thanking him again for work done over the years and touching briefly on topics such as thoughts being alive and the need to avoid negative thoughts.